

2021 ANNUAL REPORT

Delegates of the WEA's New York Conference 1873 were invited to meet with US President General Grant and later took a group photo on the steps of the Capitol, Washington D.C.

Letter from the Secretary General

At the beginning of this year, I was privileged to be entrusted with the leadership of the World Evangelical Alliance. Though I have served the WEA in various roles for more than two decades, this past year has revealed to me more strongly than ever that the WEA is a ministry that is unique in its nature, its history and its impact.

Serving a global family of more than 600 million evangelicals in churches that belong to national Evangelical Alliances in 143 countries, the WEA represents a vast diversity of believers that speak more than 1,000 languages. Some worship in what we would think of as “classic” church buildings, others rent spaces in skyscrapers of modern cities, others again worship in rain forests in high trees several meters above the ground, while again others are worshipping in secret because they live in places where followers of Christ are being persecuted.

This year has marked our 175th anniversary since the founding of the WEA in London in 1846 for the purpose of bringing evangelicals together across geographic, cultural and denominational boundaries. At that time, the WEA was considered diverse. But how much more today when evangelicalism has grown exponentially for several decades and with the center shifting to the Global South.

But what has not changed is the WEA’s striving for unity, which is founded in our common faith in Jesus Christ and Holy Scripture, the WEA’s commitment to speaking up for our persecuted brothers and sisters, and the WEA’s unique platform to bring together evangelical churches and ministries to be salt and light in the neighborhoods by addressing a wide range of global issues.

We are grateful for the members and partners who have journeyed with us throughout the year of 2021. It was God’s grace and their support that has enabled us to grow substantially, launch new networks, bring on board new leaders and experts, and see new unity movements established in different countries.

Thank you for your prayers and for your partnership as we continue to serve the Lord Jesus Christ and seek to do our part to see his prayer fulfilled that “they may be one” (John 17:23)!

Sincerely,

Bishop Dr Thomas Schirrmacher
Secretary General & CEO

OUR ROADMAP

Our efforts to realize the WEA’s vision and fulfill its mission and unique role encompass four essential Strategic Priorities: developing strong Regional and National Evangelical Alliances, being influential advocates, fostering fruitful and broad collaborations, and building effective organizational structures for outcome-based ministry. These four priorities enable action, give mobility and provide clarity in all that we do.

Strong Evangelical Alliances

To support leaders in building vital, visible and vibrant Evangelical Alliances as they mobilize churches, mission agencies and other networks towards a common agenda in their witness for Christ and advancement of God’s kingdom.

At the heart of our family of networks are Regional and National Evangelical Alliances. The genius of this global network is that each alliance is truly indigenous. Their leaders can initiate action, set priorities and mobilize their churches and partners, thereby bringing together diverse stakeholders in the pursuit of a Gospel-focused common agenda that is relevant to their context. Founded around Evangelical theology and led by called and competent people, each alliance is positioned to provide unity and collaborative action on matters of Gospel concern.

Influential Voice of Advocacy

To strengthen credible Christian voices within the public sphere at the national, regional and global levels on critical and contemporary issues. This is done primarily through research, advocacy and empowering Evangelical Alliances to mobilize churches and civil society in mitigating violations of religious freedom and advocating for the marginalized or oppressed.

We have a unique opportunity to affect the global narrative on critical issues in both sacred and secular halls of power. With WEA’s existing spheres of influence, such as our special consultative status in the United Nations, we will be bolder and more effective in speaking to global platforms of power. As a global network, we can learn from each other, and together we can influence laws and policies affecting religious freedom, justice, vulnerabilities and other appropriate issues to further the peace and well-being of all in a sustainable environment.

Fruitful and Broad Collaboration

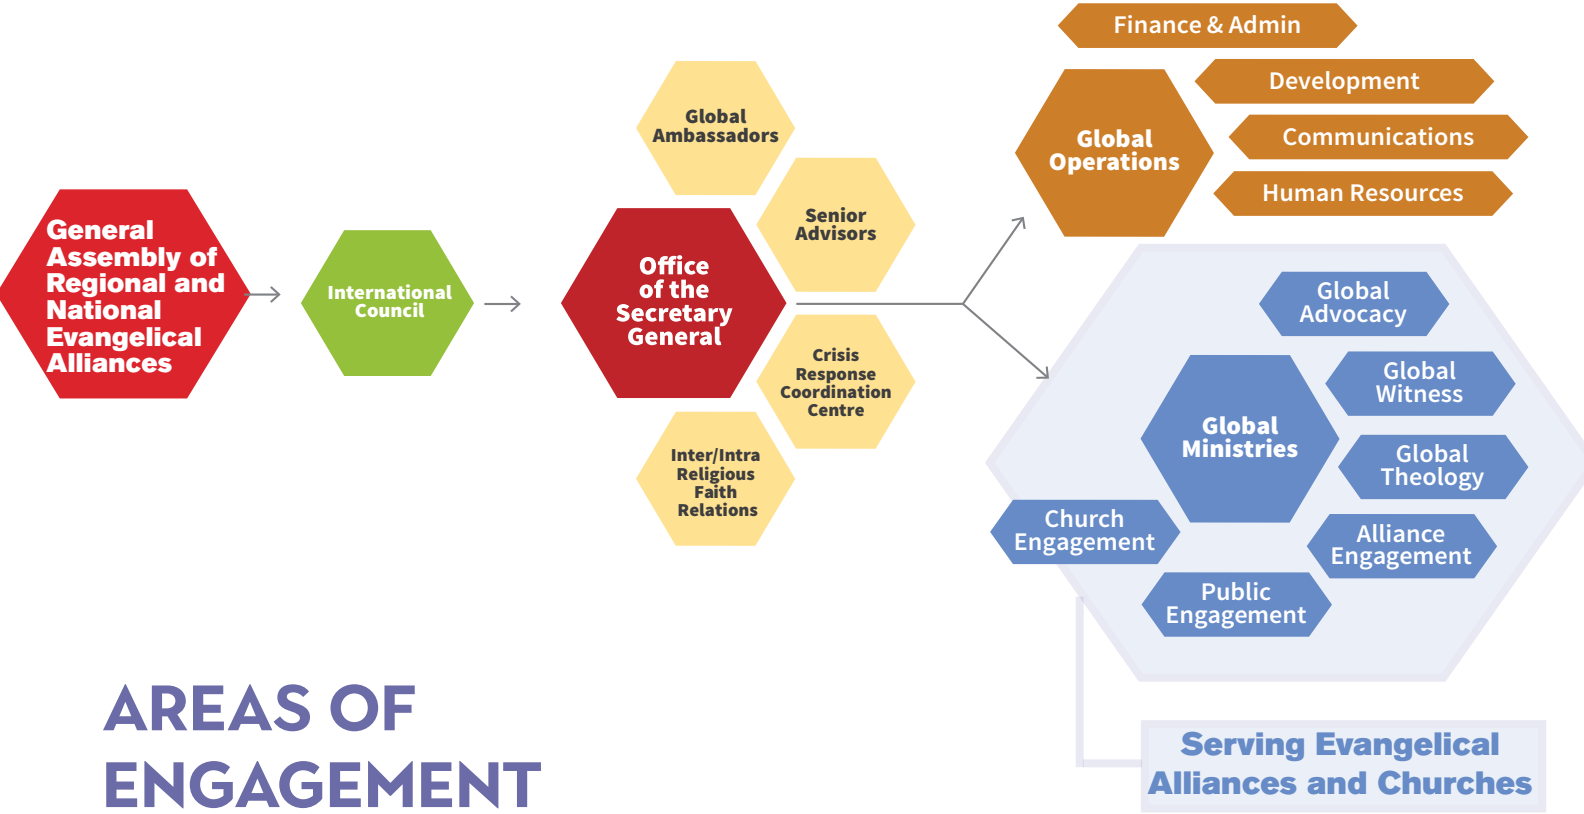

To pursue broad, purposeful collaboration at all levels of thinking and practice so as to develop and champion a common agenda as a set of shared goals for the global evangelical movement.

WEA intentionally facilitates working relationships with a diverse coalition of networks, organizations and denominations. As global issues and arrangements shift, we will remain alert and proactive, fostering partnerships and nurturing new and creative movements based on shared values and a common agenda centered on God’s kingdom.

Effective Organizational Structures

To enhance WEA’s various organizational structures so as to keep pace with the growth and needs of departments, alliances and the movement as a whole. To develop operational guidelines and mutual accountability procedures between the global office and Regional and National Alliances, for efficiency and effectiveness.

Responsive and able organizational structures are critical for WEA to be effective with its Regional and National Alliances, global office and departments, partners and affiliates. A strong and dynamic organizational “backbone” is based upon a common agenda, helps measure shared outcomes, facilitates mutually reinforcing activities, and ensures connectivity among partners. Good organization assists alliances, departments, and affiliates to be more unified, and with appropriate lines of mutual accountability, it sets in place rethinking, reflecting on and reassessing of what is being done for God’s kingdom.

AREAS OF ENGAGEMENT

The WEA has six programmatic departments: Alliance Engagement, Church Engagement, Public Engagement, Global Advocacy, Global Theology and Global Witness. Each department consists of networks related to the area that are working together to maximize their impact at the global level and all the way to the local communities.

Online Leadership Handover Ceremony Marks Transition from Philippines to Germany

On Saturday, February 27, 2021 the WEA held a Leadership Handover Ceremony where the outgoing Secretary General & CEO Bp Efraim Tintero passed on the baton to Bp Dr Thomas Schirrmacher. The two leaders were together in a studio near Bonn, Germany while the event was live-streamed for members and the general public to witness. As Bp Tintero concluded his six-year tenure as Secretary General, he was also appointed as a Global Ambassador for the WEA by his successor, so that he could continue to represent WEA at high-level events and serve WEA's global constituency.

Dr Goodwill Shana
Chair of WEA's
International Council

The ceremony featured contributions, greetings, prayers and blessings from every region of the world. In a letter announcing the event, Dr Goodwill Shana, Chair of WEA's International Council said: "It is an opportunity for us to acknowledge Bishop Efraim Tintero's contribution to the WEA and the many developments that have taken place over the past six years, and induct Bishop Dr Thomas Schirrmacher as the new Secretary General & CEO and bless him as he takes on this new role."

Since assuming leadership of the WEA in March 2015, Bp Tintero had worked towards strengthening the WEA in its representative voice on behalf of some 600 million evangelicals, its relationships with and service to regional and national Alliances and also its organizational structure. Some of the highlights of his tenure reflected these priorities as the WEA had increased its presence at and engagement with the United Nations in New York, Geneva and Bonn, had spoken up on issues of concerns to the global Church and given a voice to the marginalized and those facing pressure for their faith in Jesus Christ. The WEA could also welcome more than a dozen newly formed national and two regional Evangelical Alliances and launched the Global Institute of Leadership that provides training, mentoring and peer-learning opportunities for Alliance leaders.

"As I hand over the leadership, I believe that the WEA is stronger today than it has ever been. This would not have been possible without the prayers, generosity and support from colleagues, members, partners, and friends. I am very grateful for everyone who has accompanied me on this journey, for the many conversations, the encouragement, and the enriching moments we shared together. And I look forward to continuing the journey with WEA in the new role of Global Ambassador," said Bp Tintero, and added: "There remains much room for growth. The WEA is indispensable to the global evangelical movement and I am excited about what lies ahead in the coming years."

Bp Dr Schirrmacher expressed his appreciation for Bp Tintero's contribution as head of the WEA and also for accepting the new role. "The WEA has grown a lot over the past few years and I am grateful to assume leadership at a time when there is so much momentum and potential for the future, which is in no small part thanks to the leadership of Bishop Efraim Tintero," Bp Dr Schirrmacher said, and added: "I am also thankful that he accepted the role of Global Ambassador, which allows the WEA to continue to benefit from his wisdom and insights as he visits and encourages Alliances in different parts of the world. He is the first Secretary General to continue serving the WEA in such an official capacity, which will be a great asset to the organization as we serve such a vast constituency."

Celebrating 175 Years of Uniting Evangelicals for Prayer, Mission & Justice

August 20, 2021 marked the 175th anniversary since 1846 when some 800 evangelical leaders from eleven countries representing fifty-two Christian denominations resolved to establish a united body. It was described as “a new thing in Church history – a definite organization for the expression of unity amongst Christian individuals belonging to different churches.”

From the beginning, the WEA was established to foster unity with a purpose and mission. It has promoted the annual week of prayer for unity that is still observed in several countries to this day; it has encouraged the sharing of the Gospel of Jesus Christ; it has advocated for religious freedom for people of all faith – which made the WEA the first global faith body to do so; and it has responded to social issues, such as slavery and child labor.

Since then, the WEA has grown to a truly global organization with national Evangelical Alliances established in 143 countries on all continents. The WEA has now become the second largest world Church body that speaks as a representative voice on behalf of evangelicals at the United Nations, to governments and media, contributing an evangelical perspective on issues that are relevant to the Church globally. And it remains engaged in many of the same areas, including prayer, mission and a range of human rights and social justice issues, all based on the foundation in Scripture.

Praying for the Nations

As prayer continues to be a core activity of the WEA, every region contributed unique prayer topics for the believers in their country, so they could be salt & light in their own contexts. Prayers for repentance, prayers for unity, prayers for revival and for change in the society.

Capturing History

Recognizing the importance of historical records for future generations, the WEA has launched an effort to locate and collect publications, statements and other relevant material from Evangelical Alliances in different countries. This will allow younger leaders to learn about God’s work in each nation and continue in the footsteps of those who went ahead of them.

SELECTION OF MINISTRY HIGHLIGHTS FROM 2021

Alliance Engagement

The WEA Alliance Engagement Department (AED) seeks to strengthen existing Evangelical Alliances and establish new Alliances in places they do not yet exist. The AED, accordingly, equips and establishes Alliances to be visible, viable and vital entities that impact the nations with the Kingdom of God. It exists to serve the member Alliances of the WEA through liaison, communication, resourcing and collaboration with other departments, ministries and services of the World Evangelical Alliance.

Over the past year, the AED produced a series of booklets aimed at casting vision and providing practical advice for emerging Alliances, including steps to form a new Alliance, relevant policies and protocols, organizational leadership principles and a vision for a healthy Alliance that serves the nation.

The AED also launched a video blog to interview Alliance leaders and subject matter experts to encourage peer-learning and collaboration.

Strengthening Regional & National Evangelical Alliances

The Global Institute of Leadership (GIL) builds organizational health and effectiveness among over 140 National Evangelical Alliances. This is accomplished by training, coaching, peer-learning, resourcing and equipping. The GIL focuses much of its work on equipping the nine regional Alliances to create their own regional institutes of leadership to serve the national Alliances in their region with contextualized resources. The end goal is for each national Alliance to provide resources for their members to speak the good news of Christ and display the good works of Christ on the frontlines of their spheres of influence.

Since 2019, the GIL has worked alongside 90 National Evangelical Alliances and 7 Regional Evangelical Alliances with webinars, courses, coaching, and resourcing.

Special Campaign: Pastor's Emergency Fund

A Pastors Emergency Covid Fund Campaign for Nepal and Myanmar was launched in June 2021, providing relief aid to pastors, widows and orphans of pastors who have died, other church families and their community as they struggled to survive the Covid 19 pandemic.

In distributing the donations that have come in from around the world, top priority was given to helping feed and care for deceased pastor's widows and orphans. For many, the death of their husband and father meant the end of family income. Secondly, pastors who were currently battling Covid were assisted with funds for medical care, oxygen and more. Before, even if they were fortunate enough to be admitted to the hospital, they were soon sent away if they could not pay their doctor bills. With the aid, they were able to stay in hospital and receive the care they need to survive.

WEA Crisis Response Coordination Center Launched

Learning from the experience of responding to a crisis in collaboration with national Alliances, the WEA launched a new coordination center that would study best practices and prepare responses to crises, potentially even before they happen.

National Alliances have a unique network of local churches and ministries on the ground that global relief organizations can tap into. The WEA seeks to connect the dots and allow churches to be involved in the immediate as well as long-term relief. Even after all the relief organizations leave, the churches remain and will continue to serve their neighborhoods and communities.

PASTORS EMERGENCY COVID FUND

Church Engagement

The Church Engagement Department works with Evangelical Alliances and the broader WEA family, providing programs and resources to enable them to develop healthy disciple-making churches that make a difference in their communities. This year, the department had a special focus on Central Asia to explore how each ministry can serve the national Alliances in the various countries of the region. By engaging with leaders at grassroots, the resources and programs can be better tailored to the needs and contexts on the ground.

Men & Women Leading Together

Women have been exploring the contribution of women to the Church - leading and mentoring during the challenging times of Covid, serving others, and developing ideas on healthy partnerships with men.

The Women's Commission joined with Lausanne to publish a timely and important book called Co-Workers and Co-Leaders: women and men partnering for God's work. With seven Biblical explorations and nine practical stories from 20 global contributors, it helps churches to have good discussions on this often vexed area of Church life.

New Network on Domestic Abuse

The Women's Commission took a leading role in establishing and hosting the Christian Network to End Domestic Abuse (CNEDA). It has brought together people who are giving practical support to survivors and experts in policy to offer support and advice on best practice. Women in Asia were the catalysts for research done in four nations about the extent of abuse inside churches as well as in the wider community. CNEDA has written a booklet (available in four languages) on a Biblical view of healthy relationships. Find out more on women.worldea.org/cneda.

New Regional Children's Networks Launched in Africa, Asia and Latin America

The WEA's Children's Network seeks to rally experts and WEA's global constituency in more than 140 countries together by providing a platform for collaboration that aims to connect global children's ministries and Evangelical Alliances and speak as a representative evangelical voice on issues related to children. The mission of the WEA Children's Network is to equip parents and the Church to love, protect, guide & empower all children.

Over the past year, it expanded its reach as several regional Evangelical Alliances launched new networks focused on children. Africa, Asia and Latin America formed new groups that will unite the efforts of evangelical churches aiming to address the various spiritual, emotional and physical needs of children.

Group that launched a new regional network during the Latin Evangelical Alliance General Assembly in New York.

New Publication Speaks about Women and Men in Partnership for God's Work

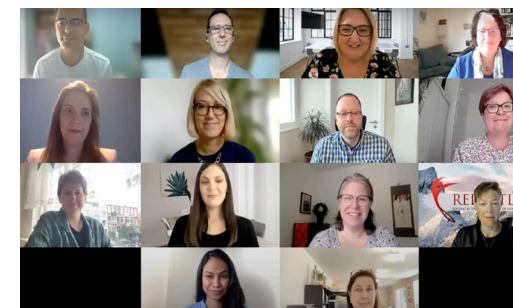

At the World Conservation Congress 2021 in September, WEA Secretary General Bishop Dr Thomas Schirmmacher presented an evangelical perspective on conservation of nature and biodiversity to the global community of experts who gathered in Marseille, France. He outlined a vision of caring for the environment based on the biblical view of man as steward of God's creation.

In November 2021, the WEA represented an evangelical voice at the COP26 in Glasgow, UK, alongside a number of member and partner organizations. As part of its ongoing engagement in creation care, the WEA co-hosted events, co-sponsored the inauguration of a global climate prayer vigil movement, launched an online platform for fostering communities that can solve problems together, and engaged in countless conversations around the role of evangelical churches and individuals in – and their unique contribution to – better caring for the earth that God has entrusted to humanity.

Newly Launched Migration and Refugee Network

The Migration and Refugees Network (MRN) was born from the understanding that the WEA is in a unique position to raise awareness of, challenge, train and resource regional and national Alliances and local evangelical churches in helping them to be forerunners and advocates in the integration and welcoming of diasporic people groups. The MRN team has made efforts towards building knowledge, networks and relationships within WEA and other global and local migrant and refugee engagement and missiology initiatives.

Addressing Modern Slavery: World Freedom Network

Responding to Modern Slavery

The World Freedom Network (WFN) was newly formed in August 2021, bringing together a variety of organizations and experts with a specific focus on how churches can get involved and play a unique role in addressing the issue of human trafficking in their own local contexts.

In strong collaboration with the European Freedom Network, WFN held an online Bridge conference aimed at Christian professionals working in the anti-trafficking sector. 309 delegates convened over 5 days, and across 5 languages, to upskill, consult and collaborate around the latest trends in human trafficking, measuring impact in the sector, collaboration and trauma training. This year's conference had a strong focus on due diligence and supply chain issues in labor trafficking, including the release of a Don't Shut Your Eyes video to raise general and church awareness of the issue.

The final day of the conference was focused on churches, providing training, understanding and tools to equip churches to address issues of human trafficking and commercial exploitation. WFN has begun mapping connections around the globe to establish regional networks that address human trafficking and support churches to be active in advocacy and responding to the needs of survivors.

Global Advocacy

Since its formation in 1846, the WEA has been concerned about human rights in general and religious freedom in particular. Over the past years, WEA's engagement at the United Nations in Bonn, Geneva and New York has gained momentum leading to the creation of the Global Advocacy Department in 2021 to unite and coordinate these efforts.

In December 2021, the WEA marked the 10th anniversary of its office in Geneva that focuses on serving the global evangelical community as a voice for justice and peace at the United Nations in Geneva. Over the past year, the office submitted 11 written reports and statements to various UN bodies. The Geneva Office made 25 oral statements at the UN Human Rights Council on behalf of our members in around 20 countries.

The UN in Geneva functioned in 2021 mostly virtually, with very few exceptions. Going virtual was an opportunity for WEA member alliances to contribute directly via video conference to key UN meetings that, otherwise, they would not have been able to. The WEA spoke up for religious minorities including converts to Christianity; advocated for the reopening of Protestant churches in Algeria and for the repeal of anti-conversion laws in India and Nepal; and more. The various reports can be downloaded at un.worldea.org.

New Direction for the International Institute for Religious Freedom (IIRF)

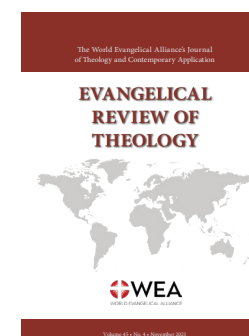

The IIRF, which was founded 15 years ago, entered a new phase of consolidation and rebranding in 2021. Under the leadership of newly appointed Global Director Dr. Dennis Petri, the IIRF staff provided research data to the Latin Evangelical Alliance, WEA Advocacy, several national parliaments, several government offices and multilateral institutions. The foundations were laid for the development of a comprehensive information management system on religious freedom to be used by academics, journalists and policy makers.

Global Theology

The Global Theology Department exists to lead an ongoing global discussion process between WEA's wide range of members, churches, training institutions, theologians, and researchers, seeking to speak with one voice to the world and connects WEA to all other global Christian communions. It seeks to be present whenever theological issues are debated on a global level. Concurrently, it also seeks to actively support the national alliances in issues related to theology and theological education.

Evangelical Review of Theology

The WEA's Evangelical Review of Theology, a free, open-access journal, published four new volumes, in which WEA leaders and other prominent Christians address issues of contemporary concern to the global body of Christ. All volumes, present and past, are available for download at worldea.org/ERT.

Evangelical Training Directory Integrated to Global Theology Department

This year, the WEA has welcomed the Evangelical Training Directory into its Global Theology Department. The change will allow the WEA to fully integrate the directory into its overall network and provide a database of recognized theological training to its global constituency.

Re-forma

Studies show that over 90% of all pastors do not have a formal theological education. Re-forma exists to ensure that those millions of pastors and church leaders are biblically-trained by providing a recognised, global standard for outcome- and impact-based assessment.

During 2021, God enabled Re-forma to enroll 520 groups on 5 continents, bringing the total by the end of December to 1059 groups. Each group has an average of 20 students. In addition, Re-forma introduced an online version of the program for individual students, which had its first two cohorts. Because no one has ever been able to research the number of non-formal ministry training programs globally, Re-forma also began a survey for that purpose which is ongoing.

Global Witness

The Global Witness Department connects with leaders of Evangelical Missionary Alliances, missions movements, networks, agencies and churches to reflect on current missions and evangelism practice and provide resources that strengthen participation in God’s mission locally and globally.

The World Evangelical Alliance, from its inception in London England in 1846, had missions and evangelism as part of its core ethos. The first edition of the Alliance’s journal “Evangelical Christendom” carried news of missionary work around the world. As the world changed and the WEA adapted to meet the concerns of Evangelical churches around the world, its concern for missions and evangelism remained constant.

New Network on Evangelism

The WEA’s Global Evangelism Network (GEN) was launched in July 2021 to put a renewed emphasis on WEA’s historical role in uniting evangelicals around proclaiming the Good News of Jesus Christ. GEN stands alongside the Mission Commission, each entity focusing on different aspects of God’s mission and working collaboratively to strengthen and widen the Church’s witness in the world.

The GEN serves as a bridging point with the WEA for existing evangelism-focused movements and organizations. It will represent the WEA in the constellation of evangelistic associations and networks; convene leadership roundtables, forums, conferences and other gatherings to cross-pollinate ideas, practices, and collaborative opportunities; and conduct research into evangelistic practice in our contemporary global context. All to affirm a Biblically authentic theology of evangelism and contribute toward more effective world evangelization.
